

Hazleton Man Shot To Death Fleeing State Trooper

Victim Was Wanted For Stealing Cars

An escaping car thief was shot fatally outside Craigs Meadows Hotel yesterday after refusing a Stroudsburg State trooper's repeated warnings to halt, State police said.

This is how Sgt. Morgan B. Davis, station commander, outlined the story of the shooting:

Trooper Peter Walsh saw the car pass him in East Stroudsburg about five minutes before a "stolen car" report went out from the Stroudsburg station's radio.

He swung his squad car eastward after the cream-colored Packard after hearing the radio report.

Walsh caught up with the car about 1:50 p.m., saw it swing right off Route 209, drive around the rear of the hotel and pull up close to the front on the other side.

The trooper went past the hotel's front and turned in facing the stolen car.

Both men got out of their vehicles. The car thief started running toward the rear of the hotel. Walsh shouted at least six times for him to halt, witnesses said.

The man kept running. Walsh pulled his pistol and fired a single shot. The bullet traveled a distance of about 50 feet, entered the man's back near the middle and emerged from the right side of his chest.

The man was apparently killed almost instantly. He was taken to the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg, and was pronounced dead on arrival there at 2:10 p.m.

He was identified through papers found on his person. A social security card listed his name and address as Raymond C. Noss, 28, of 44 E. Green St., Hazleton. Authorities said Noss was not married. A teletype message was sent out to locate possible family members in the Hazleton area, and to check his background.

Mrs. Margaret Noss, of the Green St. address in Hazleton identified the body as that of her son last night.

State Police said that Noss had a criminal record. He had been committed to such institutions as Camp Hill, Kistlyn and the Eastern State Penitentiary. He had been charged with incorrigibility, larceny of a motor vehicle, larceny, parole violation and statutory rape.

District Attorney Elmer D. Christine and Coroner W. E. Andrews were notified immediately. They and State Police Sgt. Davis conferred at Christine's office and with Davis, conducted the investigation.

Sgt. Davis said Coroner Andrews had interviewed a number of witnesses but still wanted to talk with others. A coroner's report is expected today, Davis said.

The affair began when Stanley Van Vliet, Buck Hill Falls insurance agent, parked his cream-colored car on Main St., Stroudsburg, ate lunch and went into the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Van Vliet came out of the hotel about 1:15—in time to see his own car going by. He hurried to the State Police station less than a block away and reported the car stolen.

A radio call was put out for police to be on the lookout for the vehicle.

Walsh had been on a routine Bushkill area patrol. He was crossing the street on foot at the east end of the State bridge connecting the boroughs when he saw the car go by. Five minutes later, back in his squad car, he heard the "stolen car" report on the radio.

Walsh remembered the vehicle and swung in pursuit. He arrived at the hotel about 30 seconds after Noss.

Sgt. Davis said Noss picked up (Continued on page three)

Roberts Charged With Murder In Wife's Death

Wyoming — Jonah Roberts, 46-year-old machinist, was charged with murder last night in the slaying of his wife, Mary, last June. Roberts, who lives in Edwardsville steadily denied his guilt and entered a plea of innocence.

Roberts had told State police over and over again that two hitchhikers whom they had picked up in Scranton had murdered his wife.

Weather Bureau Warns Of Winds, Severe Storms

Philadelphia, (AP)—The Weather Bureau issued a storm warning last night for Eastern Pennsylvania, Eastern New York and New Jersey. Severe thunder storms were expected early this morning with strong surface winds indicated. Winds may reach a velocity of 75 miles an hour.

New Regime Overthrown In Egypt

Cairo, Egypt, (AP)—A three-wounded Egyptian war hero, avowed foe of corruption in the government and armed forces, seized control of the Army in a lightning coup yesterday and forced a man of his choice into the premiership.

While most of Cairo slept, Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib proclaimed himself Army commander in chief and surrounded the royal palace with tanks and armored cars. Twenty high ranking officers were arrested.

Hours later, Premier Ahmed Naguib Hilali Pasha and his Cabinet resigned. They had taken office only Tuesday, forming the fifth government to serve since anti-British mobs swept Cairo in disastrous riots last January.

Allies Raid Supply Depot

Seoul, Korea, (AP)—Two hundred raiding Allied warplanes blasted a well-stocked Communist supply depot into an exploding inferno yesterday, the Air Force reported today.

Other planes fire-bombed determined Chinese infantrymen clinging to the crest of Old Baldy as fighting for the scorched and barren hill on the Western Korean Front quieted after a week-long battle.

Red China's Peiping radio identified Allied troops fighting for the hill as the U. S. Second Division "which has just replaced the considerably weakened U. S. 45th Division." The U. N. Command has not identified the Allied force in that sector since the 45th Division took Old Baldy from the Reds last month.

Target of the stunning mass air raid was Osan, a Red supply point on the east coast 10 miles south of besieged Wonsan.

His story went like this:

The hitchhikers, picked up near the Laurel Line station, forced Roberts to drive off into the lonely area near an outdoor theater at Dupont, Pa. There one of them made unnatural advances to Mrs. Roberts and then shot her twice in the head. Roberts was shot in the shoulder.

Police, working out of the office of Louis Feldmann, Luzerne County district attorney, have been investigating the case since the shooting. No previous arrests had been made.

Then Tuesday night Roberts was grilled at the state police barracks here. Feldmann said he was questioned again all day yesterday. Roberts had requested the questioning, Feldmann added.

Roberts will be taken to the Luzerne County jail at Wilkes-Barre to await action of the grand jury which convenes Aug. 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts had three sons, whose ages range from 20 to 25.

The action apparently came as a surprise to some Luzerne County officials.

Earlier last night an official source had indicated that Roberts "might be able to return to his job on Monday."

The officer said he "had talked with the factory manager on Tuesday and" in response to a question on whether the man would be allowed to come back to work on the following Monday said, "I told him we had no objection."

The official was not aware that Roberts had been questioned either. Last night's official charge was actually the second "surprise" move Luzerne County officials had made this week.

The first—on Monday—was initiated by Roberts, also, when he volunteered to take the officers out on the road in an attempt to find the exact location of the killing.

This attempt proved abortive, however, and the officers were apparently no nearer to finding the death spot than they had been before.

District Attorney Feldmann was quoted as saying, at that time, however, that the police were somewhat nearer a solution of the case.

Corn Delivered To Convention

Convention Hall, Chicago, (AP)—A fellow delivered a load of vegetable matter to the Democratic convention yesterday. Appropriately, for a political powwow, it turned out to be corn.

Several stalks of it were shocked around the Iowa standard. It had been ordered by Elmer G. Carlson of Audubon, Iowa, the national corn-husking champion.

Termination Of Soft-Coal Pact Reported

Pittsburgh, (AP)—A spokesman for Western Pennsylvania coal operators said yesterday he has been informed that John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, has served notice the UMW is terminating its soft coal agreement in 60 days.

The spokesman, who declined to be identified by name, said Lewis served the notice on Harry Moses, head of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, in Washington Tuesday.

Operators here have as yet received no confirmation of the notice.

The spokesman said the expiration of the 60-day period would fall on Sept. 20 but since that date is a Saturday, its effective date would be Monday, Sept. 22.

Anti-U. S. Feeling In Iran Grows

Tehran, Iran, (AP)—Anti-American feeling rose yesterday in many parts of Tehran with the easing of a domestic crisis that saw rightist Ahmed Qavam ousted from the premiership and Nationalist Mohammed Mossadegh returned to power with increased prestige.

A belief developed among Iranians that the United States had supported Qavam, advocate of a British-Iranian oil settlement, against Mossadegh, the guiding spirit of Iran's oil nationalization program. Qavam himself was variously reported under arrest or a fugitive.

And the vote Tuesday of an American judge on the International Court of Justice at the Hague against a majority decision disclaiming jurisdiction in Britain's oil suit against Iran angered many Iranians formerly friendly to the United States. The judge, Green H. Hackworth, and other dissenters were outvoted 9-5.

The growing anti-American sentiment was based mainly on a 90-minute visit made by U. S. Ambassador Loy W. Henderson to Qavam's home Saturday. Nationalists contended this was an indication Henderson backed Qavam.

The ambassador, however, told newsmen Qavam had summoned him. Since Qavam was premier, Henderson said, he had to make the call.

Nanticoke Mayor To Face Charges

Wilkes-Barre, (AP)—Luzerne County Dist. Atty. Louis G. Feldmann said yesterday five criminal charges will be filed against the mayor of Nanticoke, Anthony B. Dreier.

Feldmann said the charges against Dreier, who was elected on a reform ticket in 1949, include violation of his oath of office, embezzlement, violation of the election laws, misfeasance and malfeasance in office.

White House Calls New Steel Talks

Washington, (AP)—President Truman yesterday called the top union and industry leaders in the nation-wide steel dispute to a White House conference today in a personal effort to end the crippling 32-day-old strike.

The White House said Truman summoned CIO President Philip Murray and President Benjamin Fairless of U. S. Steel to meet with him at 10 a. m.

Both Murray and Fairless promptly accepted the invitation. Defense Mobilizer John R. Steelman will sit in.

In announcing the President's dramatic new bid to bring peace to the strike-paralyzed steel industry, Presidential Secretary Joseph Short told newsmen that possible use of the 1948 Selective Service draft Act was being "re-studied."

The act permits seizure of defense plants under certain emergency conditions.

It was reported last week that seizure of a small portion of the industry under the draft act was receiving "serious consideration" at the White House. It would apply chiefly to plants producing special steel for guns, bullets, tanks, etc.

Truman's decision to take personal charge of the long-stalemated negotiations came amid these related developments:

One—Secretary of Defense Lovett compared the impact of the steel strike on the nation's defense production program to a devastating attack by enemy bombers. He warned that it may soon have serious effects on the rate of U. S. fire power in Korea.

Two—Unemployment directly stemming from the steel strike edged close to the two-million mark. Total loss to the national economy was estimated at four billion dollars.

Both sides in the great steel controversy have virtually agreed on all major points in dispute except the question of compulsory union membership—the union shop.

Defense Secretary Lovett said the strike by 650,000 CIO Steelworkers has cut production of 57 millimeter recoilless ammunition to such an extent that in July and August "we will be producing less than we will be firing—a shameful thing."

Lovett said Gen. Mark Clark, supreme Allied commander in the Far East, had telegraphed the Defense Department expressing anxiety over the effects of the steel strike and urging every effort to get ammunition.

Bus Carrying 34 Passengers Blows Up, Burns

Asheville, N. C. (AP)—A bus, believed to have 34 aboard, has blown up and burned in Newfound Gap on the Tennessee-North Carolina line in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, the state highway patrol said last night.

Numbers of burned persons have been sent to North Carolina and Tennessee hospitals from the remote point. The Asheville patrol radio station said it had no reports of any fatalities.

Philadelphian May Nominate Truman

Chicago, (AP)—Rep. William Green of Philadelphia said last night that he will nominate President Truman to be the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate "unless I receive direct orders from the President not to do it."

Civil Rights Truce Written Into Platform

Chicago, (AP)—A new Democratic campaign platform containing an uneasy Dixie-Yankee truce on the civil rights plank won approval last night from a weary 108-member committee of delegates.

The bulky document now moves out to convention hall where party leaders hoped the somewhat surprising display of harmony on the delicate issue of racial relations would continue.

Formal approval by the full Platform Committee after a steaming eight-hour closed door session was a major victory for compromises among both Southern and Northern wings of the party.

The same issue caused a party-shattering convention floor battle four years ago at Philadelphia.

It still was not certain just when the platform would be taken to the floor.

Eisenhower Confers With GOP Leaders

Fraser, Colo. (AP)—Tanned and chipper, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower cooked a breakfast of flapjacks and bacon yesterday for a trio of Republican leaders at his vacation retreat in the Colorado Rockies.

The Republican presidential nominee, well rested after a week of trout fishing and loafing, was on hand at the front door of his cabin early yesterday to welcome the first visitors he has had since arriving here last Thursday.

They were Sen. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania, Ralph C. G. O'Neil, national committeeman from Oregon, and Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado.

When he returned to Denver last night, Duff told a news conference that he, Calkins and Thornton had discussed virtually every phase of the campaign with Eisenhower.

Duff said the conferees placed particular emphasis on a need for continuing the National Citizens for Eisenhower Committee, and that the general had authorized him to say he was in wholehearted accord with the idea, even expanding the committee's activities.

Duff added that the committee will pay special attention to wooing independents and disgruntled Democratic voters.

A few minutes after the visitors arrived, Eisenhower went to work preparing breakfast.

"Come on, you guys, come over here and get it," the general called to the newsmen.

One of them shot back, as the general laughed, that this was the "first time I have ever been served by a five star K. P."

After breakfast, Eisenhower proudly displayed six oil paintings he has completed since arriving at the cattle ranch of his old friend Aksel Nielsen.

Sen. Johnston Stricken Ill

Chicago, (AP)—Sen. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina was taken ill on the floor at the Democratic National Convention yesterday and was sent to a hospital in an ambulance.

Sen. Burnet R. Maybank, who was with him, said he did not know the nature of the attack but that Johnston seemed to be in much pain. Johnston is 55 years old.

A nurse at the auditorium first aid station said Johnston suffered a kidney attack. She called him a "very sick man."

Threatened Bolt By Dixie Staved Off For Present

By Douglas B. Corneli

Convention Hall, Chicago (AP)—Alben W. Barkley, doughty Democratic patriarch, summoned the schism-threatened party legions last night to unite in a renewed "crusade" for victory over the GOP.

And for the moment, the Democratic National Convention closed ranks in a tremendous throbbing ovation for the 74-year-old vice president who hid the hurt in his heart over being forced from the presidential nominating race.

Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois was out ahead in that race, still saying he wasn't running. President Truman was, for the moment keeping hands off.

Here in this tremendous convention amphitheater, Dixie delegates who had seemed ready to bolt in a rage over a loyalty oath, grabbed up state banners and paraded with all the rest in a long, roaring demonstration for Barkley.

For a while it had appeared that South Carolina, at least, and probably Virginia and Louisiana would take a walk. They talked of it openly.

Rumblings of Southern revolt over a prescribed "loyalty oath" for the Democratic legions had reached the point where the South Carolina delegation, in caucus assembled, voted unanimously to secede from the convention.

But then Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina stepped in and instructed the delegation to be in its seats last night. And when the session started they were on hand as usual. So were Virginia and Louisiana.

All three had balked at signing a pledge to go back home and do all they could to get the convention's nominees on their state ballots. To placate the South, the oath had been watered down, with a proviso saying the delegates don't have to do this if there is something in state law or state party rules that forbids.

But still the three states refused to sign—and some convention leaders were saying they could not be allowed to vote in the party convocation.

But House Speaker Sam Rayburn, who hails from Texas, took over the permanent chairmanship of the convention last night with a remark:

"It is my thought that every delegate seated here has a right to be here."

This was an indication that, if Rayburn had his way, the defiant Dixie men would be allowed to vote. It brought a shout of approval from Southerners.

Rayburn then embarked on his formal speech, originally scheduled for delivery Tuesday night but delayed until last night by the slow pace of the convention.

Rayburn said that GOP nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower is only a front for shrewd forces who "want the same old Republican party in nothing new but the clothes it wears."

Behind the fight over the loyalty oath is the fear of many Southern delegations that the convention might nominate a man they dislike, on a civil rights platform plank they would hate.

When it came to voting on the platform, the question would undoubtedly arise whether the Southerners who had refused the pledge of allegiance would be allowed to ballot.

If Rayburn ruled in their favor, there still remained the possibility that the convention could overrule him.

Before the night session opened the South Carolina vote to secede had come, and then Byrnes' intervention.

The vote to bolt was unanimous, leaders announced. It was taken at a single state caucus following a breakdown of efforts by party leaders to get South Carolina, Virginia and Louisiana to take a loyalty oath which all other delegations had accepted.

Just before the South Carolinians balloted, Byrnes had left the meeting to consult with Virginia and Louisiana governors. He said he was going to arrange a joint news conference, and speculation was that all three states might walk out of the convention.

Byrnes said he didn't know the South Carolinians had voted in his absence, and he told reporters:

"I have not walked out—I will be in my seat tonight."

Gov. John S. Battle said nothing had changed in Virginia's position. That is, Virginia still was balking at the loyalty oath and taking what Battle called a wait-and-see attitude.

So there still was a possibility of a dramatic walkout, like the Dixie bolt over the civil rights issue at

Truman Waits For Chicago Developments

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

Washington, (AP)—A top candidate of President Truman said last night the President is withholding any official endorsement of Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination until he is sure the Illinois governor is the winner.

The informant declined to allow the use of his name but said that the President is "absolutely opposed" to the nomination of Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

This source said Truman is waiting for developments at the Chicago convention before making any open commitment.

Among other things, this Truman confidante, in close touch with the developments in Chicago, said the President doesn't want to "get out on a limb and have it saved out from under him."

As this man sized up the situation, the President is somewhat disturbed by the lack of an outright commitment from Stevenson to accept nomination.

"The President was ready to go along with Vice President Barkley for the nomination," this Truman associate told a reporter. "It wasn't just a courtesy or complimentary endorsement the President gave the Veep. But that limb was saved out from under the President. That went flat. Or ran into a bridge, particularly when the labor leaders refused to go along with Barkley."

Under the circumstances, this man continued, the President has been slow to make a direct commitment to Stevenson without any assurances that he will accept nomination and reach an understanding with the administration.

"The President doesn't want to go out on another limb," he said, "if Gov. Stevenson acts right," the man continued, "it looks like his nomination is inevitable."

The Chief Executive put off until Friday his trip to Chicago to address the Democratic National Convention.

Meantime, Truman kept mum in the face of Chicago reports that he soon would send word of his choice for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The trip to Chicago had been tentatively set for today, but as the Democratic delegates wrangled and fell behind schedule the postponement was announced late yesterday.

There was talk that maybe that was what Byrnes was playing for—not merely an announcement of secession at a time when the convention was in recess but a bolt staged from the convention hall itself, within the view of television cameras and the public.

But there was also talk that perhaps new compromise maneuvers were in the making.

The secession could have a far-reaching impact on a party that realizes it is heading into a hard campaign against Republicans paced by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. There was a deep-seated fear that without a solid South—Eisenhower has some strength there—Democratic chances of victory would be weakened seriously.

THE CHASE ENDED HERE—Behind the Craigs Meadows Hotel on Route 209, at a point indicated by the arrow above, Raymond Noss, 28, of Hazleton, was shot yesterday by Pfc. Peter Walsh of the Stroudsburg State Police substation. Noss had stolen an auto a short time before on Main St., Stroudsburg. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Monroe County General Hospital. The stolen car is shown above right in the photo. Pfc. Walsh fired at the fleeing man only after shouting repeatedly at him to "Halt."

Completion Of Signal Corps Depot Set For September, 1953

Work Being Rushed At Big Project

Tobyhanna — September, 1953 is the date set for completion of the $33,000,000 supply depot of the U. S. Army Signal Corps here, it was revealed yesterday by Lt. Col. Charles S. Tucker, resident engineer.

The announcement is the first concrete indication of when the gigantic project will be finished. It was noted, however, that the 52-day-old steel strike may intervene unless a settlement is reached soon.

Blanding Construction Co. of Moorestown, N. J., this week began preparations to build a sewage treatment plant at the southwest corner of the huge site and Col. Tucker indicated the plant will have a capacity for 3,000 population when finished.

Working as a sub-contractor for Merritt-Chapman & Scott, holders of the $16,353,282 final phase contract for the depot, the Blanding firm will erect about nine tanks, a two-story control building and several two-story operational buildings. Merritt-Chapman & Scott hold the contract to construct three general purpose warehouses, 200 feet by 1,200 feet, more than a dozen other structures, including the sewage treatment plant, utilities and site improvements.

Two officials of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad also were at the scene yesterday conducting what they termed "a periodic check-up" on progress. W. G. Dorsey, superintendent of the Scranton division, and L. M. Blum, division freight agent, toured the section where a railroad classification yard will be located after branching off from the main line. It is expected that four spurs will leave the main stem and tracks from the yards to seven warehouses will be built by the U. S. Army. When finished approximately 10 miles of railroad track will be located in the reservation limits.

Workmen from Rocher Bros. are edging closer to an underpass of the DL&W on the west side, just south of the sewage treatment plant location, with a main access road which will be utilized for continued development. George Nicholson, general superintendent of Rocher Bros., predicted the road will be finished shortly. Last week Col. Tucker said the first phase of operations by Rocher Bros. should be done by Sept. 1.

There is still no word as to when the influx of personnel will converge on the center. However, Col. Tucker said last week the first four warehouses being erected by Consolidated Construction Co., Inc. of Woodbury, N. J., will be finished by Jan. 1. No heating equipment will be available at that time and it was understood that until heating facilities were provided, probably early next year, no large crews will be located there.

Driver Hurt Second Time This Year

Mount Pocono—John Flath, 20, of this borough, was in serious condition yesterday for the second time this year as the result of a traffic accident on Route 611.

At 4 a. m. yesterday his car rammed the rear of a north-bound truck-trailer, then hit a house at the side of the highway, according to Mount Pocono State police.

He suffered a nose fracture, concussion, severe head and face cuts and a fractured hand. He was treated at the scene by Dr. E. O. Headrick here and then taken to the General Hospital, East Stroudsburg.

Police said Flath was returning home, reportedly after taking his girl friend home to Stroudsburg, and apparently fell asleep at the wheel.

After hitting the rear of the truck, police said the vehicle apparently was jarred back into neutral. It rolled backward down a grade, mounted a sidewalk and rammed the porch of Fred A. Snyder.

The driver of the truck was listed as Fred A. Boesz, of Elmer, N. J.

A few months ago Dr. Headrick treated Flath for a fractured jaw suffered when the youth's car struck a truck on Route 611 between Stroudsburg and Mount Pocono.

Snyder Funeral Held Yesterday

Services for Mrs. Carolina Snyder, 90, Hamilton Square, were held yesterday at Hamm funeral home, Brodheadsville, with Rev. Adan Bohner officiating.

Burial was at Mount Zion Cemetery, Hamilton Township, with pallbearers Arthur Stackhouse, Robert Snyder, Raymond Gunn, Robert White, Vernon White and A. B. Snyder.

In Canada newspaper is the No. 1 export, outranking even grain crops as a money-maker.

North-South Battle Takes Over Limelight At Democratic Convention Session Yesterday

By Peter Olwyler

The question of "who will be nominated?" took a back seat to the North-South battle at the convention yesterday.

Delegate Harold C. Edwards reported from Chicago he felt it was pretty much a foregone conclusion Stevenson would be Ike's opponent in November.

But there was no "foregone conclusion" about whether the Democratic Party would remain in one piece.

What looked like "harmony" or a reasonable facsimile of it earlier in the day changed to something different when South Carolina voted not to attend any more sessions.

The vote, by delegates in a State caucus, was unanimous—but Governor James Byrnes wasn't there at the time. Minutes later he said there would be no walkout, despite the vote. It was a close thing, but Byrnes was right. Last night South Carolina delegates were in their usual seats on the convention floor.

Nevertheless, the vote was an indication of the Carolina sentiment. Edwards didn't know what Virginia and Louisiana would do. He mentioned unofficial versions—called from Louisiana delegates—that their State would go along with the rest of the convention to keep the party in one piece.

The civil rights battle occurs regularly at Democratic conventions. This time Northern factions were trying to:

One—Put a "jail sentence" (as the South described it) Fair Employment Practices Commission plank in the platform;

Two—Put in a prohibition against filibustering—the South's traditional weapon against civil rights legislation in Congress;

Three—Prevent a bolt from the Party in the event the South balked at a strong civil rights plank.

Point No. 1 was given up yesterday when Sen. Lehman of New York quit trying to put it over.

Point No. 3 is the one that delegates are fighting over now, and the thing that was responsible for South Carolina's refusal to attend any more sessions.

A resolution was adopted by the convention in voice vote that delegates must agree to use their best efforts to see that the Party nominees are put on their State ballots under "Democratic Party" in November, Edwards explained.

Everyone signed but the three States, Virginia, Louisiana and South Carolina.

A Virginia man told Edwards that Virginia delegates were miffed at the idea of signing because their State party laws require the National Party's nominees to be placed on the ballot anyway—and they couldn't see the need for signing the current pledge.

Edwards said it hadn't yet been settled whether state delegations (the three Southern states) will be permitted to take part in the convention if they don't sign the pledge.

The Stroudsburg man said Pennsylvania's Kefauver backers "are definitely out of the picture" in their attempt to hold 27 "pledged" delegates to support of Kefauver.

It's expected, he added, that the "Kefauver crowd" of Pennsylvania will demand a poll of delegates to put the votes of the 27 on the record for home-town consumption.

Former Sen. Francis J. Myers, the Pennsylvanian acting as floor leader for Stevenson, declared that this would be taken care of in a State caucus, Edwards said. Myers hasn't said when the caucus will be held, but added it will be "well in advance" of the first vote.

Edwards said the convention didn't think much of Kefauver's showing up on the floor yesterday while business was being carried on.

A credentials committee report was under way when Kefauver walked in, said Edwards. A demonstration started, but the demonstration "caused a lot of resentment among all the delegates."

Said Edwards: "I understand it's the first time in history that a presidential nomination candidate has appeared before he was nominated. The general feeling was that it was cooked up and designed, and the gallery was packed in his favor. A Virginia man told me 'If he ever did have a chance, I don't think he'll have one after this.'"

Edwards described the Kefauver appearance on the convention floor as "a fiasco and a cheap way of trying to get in the limelight."

A Carbon County man got in the national limelight without even trying, Edwards said. He was Ambrose O'Donnell, county commissioner whom Edwards and Kent got appointed a doorman in the gallery—so he could see the show.

O'Donnell had slipped down to a box seat at the side of the convention floor. Suddenly a galaxy of photographers appeared in front of him, television cameras were trained on him, and so were the eyes of nearly all the delegates and visitors.

Still wondering what all the fuss was about, O'Donnell saw a man sit down in the empty chair at his side. It was Kefauver, in his precedent-shattering bid for attention.

Edwards has company yesterday. Dr. Floyd W. Shafer, Gilbert, arrived at the convention in the afternoon. He is an alternate delegate.

Dr. Shafer predicted the Democrats "will win in November." He said he had canvassed Monroe County's West End voters and found many of them—especially women—say they "won't vote for a military man."

As far as Stevenson goes, Edwards thought it would be to the White House if the Democrats win in November.

Everywhere (except among the opposition, of course) Edwards heard "Stevenson on an early ballot, with a Southerner as his running mate." Strongest possibility appeared to be Senator Sparkman of Alabama.

A number of New York delegates told Edwards they thought Stevenson would get a "lot of support after the first ballot" despite moves by FDR Jr. to block Stevenson's end run for the nomination.

The Stroudsburg attorney philosophized a bit:

"You come to the convention as a delegate—and your mind's pretty well made up on the first day. After that there's a lot of shouting and maneuvering, but you just sit there and wait for the voting to begin."

Hazleton Man Shot To Death

four hitchhikers after stealing the car. They were Murray Eckell, 1500 Edgemont Ave., Chester, Pa., an employee at Pocono Highland Camp; Walter Gabbo, 26 W. High St., Coal Dale, N.Y., looking for work; and two unidentified young campers.

Davis said Noss let his passengers off at the hotel, saying he was going to stop in there for a drink.

Gabbo and Eckell were picked up later at separate places on N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg. Davis said they were interviewed as witnesses.

Van Vliet said he parked his car in front of the Indian Queen Hotel in a shady spot. He then stopped in at Biggs' restaurant, a block to the east, ate lunch, moved on to the Penn-Stroud.

Van Vliet said he was standing outside the hotel again talking to Roy Hauser, Stroudsburg, when he saw "my own car go by."

It was the funniest feeling in the world," Van Vliet said. He could identify the car easily because of the plastic bug shield mounted on the hood and the "bug-breakers" mounted on the vent windows.

The insurance man said the driver in his car was behaving as though "he owned the car—and the town, too."

Van Vliet walked up the block far enough to make certain his car was actually gone, then hustled across the street and reported the theft to Pfc. Ed Beneski. Beneski put out the radio alert.

Noss' body was released to Dunkelberger and Westbrook funeral home, Stroudsburg, pending services.

Two Autos Damaged In Collision

Gilbert — Damages were estimated at $225 to two vehicles involved in a collision at the West End racetrack entrance near Gilbert at 4:20 yesterday afternoon.

Brodheadsville State police who investigated the accident said the operators of the two cars were Norman A. Ritter, 21, Copley RD 1, and Anselmo Riboldi, 63, of Kunkletown RD 1.

Riboldi was coming out of the racetrack entrance when his car collided with the Ritter vehicle, traveling south on the dirt road. Both drivers said they "didn't see" the other vehicle, police indicated. There were no injuries and no arrests were made.

Both cars remained in operating condition, police said.

Your Right To Vote!

We are glad Monroe County Commissioners have again decided to set up field registration centers to register voters for the November 4 election.

This is a step that obviously should be taken for the promotion of good citizenship.

There will be many new voters this year—young people just turned 21. There's been a lot of moving around, with voters going from one district to another. Some voter registrations have lapsed, because of failure to vote in the last two years.

New voters must register by Sept. 13. That includes those who have permitted their registration to lapse because of failure to vote in the last two years.

Every eligible voter should remember that Sept. 4 is the last date they can move from one district to another and still vote on Nov. 4. You must live in a district at least 60 days before the election.

These dates are going to come around quickly, if they're not watched. Those in doubt about their own registrations should call the Monroe County Commissioners office in the Court House.

Every eligible voter owes it to himself, his fellow-citizens and his nation to cast his ballot. For the more people who take part in an election, the better the result—which is just another way of stating Abraham Lincoln's saying that "everybody knows more than anybody."

Olympic Victories

Just as the youth of our land have been taught to believe that American military might is invincible and that the air, sea and ground forces of the nation will triumph in whatever battle they encounter, so have we been schooled to think that our athletes are the best in the world.

Certainly we hope that this is so, and that when the present Olympic games come to an end in early August, the lion's share of the awards will be carried home by representatives of the United States.

The games got off to a good start, from our point of view, as Walt Davis came through with a record breaking high-jump victory, but this was only the beginning and each successive day showed what our men and women can do in the toughest form of competition.

One thing is unusual about this year's games, and that is the presence of the representative athletes of Soviet Russia. Perhaps they are inspired by a certain fear of being liquidated if they don't bring home the bacon, but there can be little doubt of the Russian zeal for victory.

When Walt Davis took the high jump, it must have been disappointing to the followers of Joe Stalin, since without a doubt the Russians invented the high jump just as they have invented everything else in the world, including a world-shattering skill in tossing the Big Lie as far as it has ever been tossed.

The 1952 Olympics will have another battle this week, the battle for attention in the newspapers, on the radio, and over television networks. If the games can break even on space and time with these elements of public information, it will mean another world's record!

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

North and South

Sectionalism is not unusual in most countries. In the larger ones, geographic differences play an important role in forming varieties of attitudes. In some countries, even small ones, sectionalism is often the product of differing racial and religious origins. Such a small nation as Yugoslavia is so divided; and little Belgium is divided between Flemings and Walloons.

In the United States, sectionalism antedates the Civil War. Even in colonial times, the culture of Virginia and South Carolina, for instance, was different from that of Massachusetts and Connecticut. In the South, land ownership was the mark of wealth; in the North, the possession of money early became a mark of social distinction. The South based its economy to some degree upon indentured white men and Negro slaves; in the North, a free economy early asserted itself.

This generalization is too simple not to call for numerous exceptions of which I am aware, but it does make the basic distinction between a continuing English-style society of landed gentry in the South and a developing bourgeois society of tradesmen and manufacturers in the North. Out of this distinction developed the modern Democratic and Republican parties.

From 1860 to 1932, this additional factor in the North appeared, namely, the farmers were generally Republicans, while the new immigrants in each period tended to be Democrats. The newer immigrants, those, let us say, who came into this country subsequent to 1905, tended also to remain, to a considerable extent, laborers who brought with them European proletarian concepts of the class struggle in distinction to the American concept of equality of opportunity.

The Democratic Party, under Franklin D. Roosevelt, was the first American political party which consciously and even scientifically recognized the nature of the changes which had taken place in the American population.

The Democrats accepted the South as theirs, to be held without effort, because the organization of local power in the Southern states made it difficult, if not impossible, for the politicians to switch to the Republican Party, except on an issue of religious bigotry such as affected Al Smith. The failure of the Jeffersonian Democrats to defeat Roosevelt and the Dixiecrats to defeat Truman was due to this one-party condition in most of the solid South. The fruits in the local elections were too important to sacrifice.

The division between North and South continues among the Democrats in 1952, with this added factor, that the CIO has become a greater power under Truman than it was under Roosevelt. No matter what the situation, Roosevelt managed to be the master of the day and could, if need be, quarrel with so powerful a figure as John L. Lewis. Truman is no such man. The present steel strike, for which Mr. Truman is responsible, establishes the overwhelming authority of Phil Murray. No Democrat will be nominated for the Presidency whom the CIO opposes.

The CIO is the balance of power between the North and the South. And the CIO feeds the national divisive tendency toward fragmenting the American people, toward breaking us into small racial, religious, occupational groups, tightly propagandized into group consciousness to a degree heretofore unknown in American life. They often coalesce on such questions as FEPC and what they call Civil Rights.

The Democrats are trying to resolve their North-South problem by such a compromise as a liberal Northerner for President and a conservative Southerner for Vice President. Such a candidature as Stevenson and Russell would, it would seem, please most Democrats and might even win in November.

But it would solve no American problem. Rather, it would intensify the rising opposition to the political authority of the CIO, among conservatives, who are still in the majority in this country. It would not answer the question of the advent of Fabian Socialism in America in the form of the A.D.A. It would not solve the Negro problem.

What does winning, for either party, in November mean other than the elevation of a man to the Presidency and the satisfaction of his ego and perhaps his wife's ambitions?

We are at war with a mighty foe who has demonstrated unusual abilities in devising new, unorthodox methods for our destruction. With national survival the realistic stake, our political parties act as they might have in 1932, namely, that all that matters is to win an election, no matter what happens to the country.

Gregory Piatagorsky, the famous cellist, and his wife were invited to a big party in New York recently but their child's nurse was off on vacation, and they couldn't think of anybody to be baby-sitter for him. "I know," said Mrs. P. suddenly, "we'll call mama!" Mama was in Paris. She would have flown over too—but it turned out she was going to a party of her own on the evening in question.

Washington Report

Chicago—It will require a staff of psychiatrists to explain the campaign of Gov. Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination. The same crew of mental lint-pickers may find it interesting also to examine the mass mind of convention delegates who have built up a head of steam for the Illinois governor.

If nominated, Stevenson might be elected. It will be essential in that event to know what manner of man this is who has uttered such a strange collection of statements concerning himself while actively jockeying for the party's top political spot.

Gov. Stevenson, of course, is not mentally unbalanced. He may, however, be president in a crucial period in which the nation's security is at stake in a war with Russia.

We ought to know what the governor had in mind when he said: "I will shoot myself if nominated."

This may have been a joke. I do not know of anyone who was convulsed by it, however. Certainly none of the delegates I have consulted responded with merriment. They said they couldn't explain it, and went right on shouting for Stevenson's nomination.

Equally interesting is the governor's statement before the Illinois delegates. He bared his political soul, apparently on the assumption that it was a private gathering. A platoon of reporters were listening in, however, and although doubling their ears, reported an accurate version of the governor's remarks. He hasn't denied them.

The governor told his fellow Democrats that he was totally unqualified for the office of president. In fact, he derided his lack of mental and spiritual qualifications for the job. It was the most intimate self-analysis of inadequacy, to my knowledge, ever uttered by a prospective president of the United States.

It may be that the governor is a man of great humbleness. If so, it is an admirable quality, but I find no undue quantities of it in his campaign oratory that seated him successfully in the governor's chair nor did the governor consider himself inadequate to criticize the Republican party in his address of welcome on Monday.

It may be that Stevenson has a split political personality. As governor of the state of Illinois he is fully qualified mentally to castigate an opposing political party; as a presidential candidate he is by his own words, not qualified to do so.

The delegates are more to be pitied than scorned in their enthusiasm for Stevenson. They like him. He is a new personality in a bag of political hacks. He is a rallying point in a convention unequalled for total confusion. He is aloof to convention infighting over civil rights, Loyalty oaths and delegate battles.

The reaction will set in later if the governor is nominated. Republicans are sure to remind the Democrats, probably with large roadside posters, that the party's presidential nominee said: "I will shoot myself if nominated." "I am totally unqualified for the nomination." Even Dwight D. Eisenhower's political brain truster, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, could probably be convinced that such a reminder isn't too tough on the opposition.

Short of an explanation from the psychiatrists, I must rely on a layman's version of the governor's peculiar behavior that is floating around Chicago. This version is that the governor has been plotting to obtain the nomination for many months, using the device of disinterest as a means of winning a real convention draft. The general idea appears to be that by this mechanism Stevenson could dissociate himself completely from the policies of Harry S. Truman.

It will take more than shooting himself to do this, however. The governor has Mr. Truman on his back from the moment he accepts the nomination if it is offered to him. Perhaps the governor knew all along that his nomination was inevitable. Not knowing how to cope with Mr. Truman, mink coats, deep freezes, tax scandals and political favors for gangsters may have forced him into his present state of futility.

When you stop to think about it, there is great doubt that any man has the mental capacity to be a successful party nominee if chained to so many political scandals, including the codding of Communists and Soviet spies. Still, I'd like to hear from the psychiatrists.

"Oh, say does that star-spangled banner yet wave O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?"

A little bit late to write about the Fourth of July now, but it would be just to badify the Fourth of July were only a one-day affair, in our hearts and forgotten a couple of weeks after we celebrate it.

I think that is one of the troubles with us. We forget too soon. We have too many things on our minds and in our hearts. Unfortunately too many of the RIGHT things are crowded out by the WRONG things that seem to be so much more important for the moment.

But back to the Fourth of July. On the morning of that day there was some kind of patriotic service on the radio.

It was preceded and followed by a toothpaste commercial so I don't remember who the leather-lunged tenor was who sang the

I got into my car and drove about forty miles all through the neighboring countryside to find an answer to the question "Oh, say does that star-spangled banner still wave?"

Most of them were prosperous homes. Many of them were the homes of wealthy people. Many others were the homes of working men.

The great majority were the homes of what is generally called "real Americans."

Hollywood —by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Handsome, scar-faced Vittorio Gassman can thank his bride, Shelley Winters, for his Hollywood career.

The Italian actor had "no thought" of coming to America when they met in a Rome theater last November. Was it love at first sight? "Interest at first sight," Vittorio said.

He learned English so he could converse with Shelley. And after he'd followed her to America and married her, an agent got him into pictures. The first was an independent called "The Glass Wall." The second is "Sombbrero," for MGM, where his contract allows him six months' liberty a year in which to return to Italy.

He's going to Rome in October to act in four more (he's done 93 already), starting with an Italian-language version of "Hamlet." Shelley's trying to arrange a new contract with U-I that will give her time off, too. If she can't work it out, he said, she'll go on suspension if necessary in order to accompany him.

Vittorio admitted that Shelley is temperamental but added: "I'd get bored with an untemperamental girl. Getting bored is the biggest danger there is in marriage, a profession, everything."

Shelly gets upset at things like gossip-column items that the Gassmans are quarreling. "I take such things much more calmly," Vittorio said. "I'm temperamental, too, but I save my temper for more serious things. She is a more instinctive being than I am; I am more reflective."

"We have opposite ideas about everything. That's very good; gives us things to discuss. There's a big difference between discussing and quarreling."

Vittorio and Shelley hold different acting theories, for instance. She believes in realism; he stresses technique, voice, respiration. But as an actress she is Convention Airwave Interview Q—What's your name, please?

A—Onis Clonk. Q—What are you doing in Chicago?

A—Is that where I am? Q—I'll accept that answer, Mr. Clonk. What do you think of the convention?

A—Would you repeat that question? I think I know the correct answer, but I want to be sure.

Q—Listen carefully, and remember you have only one minute. What do you think of the convention. No prompting!

A—Is it vegetable or mineral? Q—Sorry, but I can't give you any clues, Mr. Clonk. You must answer without help. What do you think of the convention?

A—Am I standing close enough?

Q—Close enough for what? A—Close enough to the camera for my answer to photograph clearly.

Q—Are you answering full face or profile? A—Make it a little of each. I guess the convention is okay.

Q—Wonderful, Mr. Clonk, wonderful! Now we come to the second question. Are you enjoying your visit to Chicago?

A—Hedy Lamarr.

Q—No, I'm sorry but the correct answer is Mr. Everest. Now will you tell us whom you think the Democrats will name here?

A—I like Ike.

Q—That was last week's convention.

A—Are you positive?

Q—Maybe we're both wrong. Are you married or single, Mr. Clonk?

A—I won't know until the next ballot. Is it okay if I wave at my wife now?

Q—I thought you weren't sure whether you were married or "excellent, very honest; a great personality."

Gassman, 30, the son of a construction engineer, appeared in 20 movies before coming to Hollywood. His profiles are so different, he joked, that he "should be paid twice." The right side, which bears a small scar from a dog bite, is the "nice" one. The left, scarred in amateur boxing, is his villainous profile.

Boxing also left a bump on his nose and a scar above his right eye. But these defects are hardly noticeable on Gassman's lean, strong features.

Jail Rioters Gain Nothing

Boston (AP)—Quiet was restored yesterday at the ancient, rambling state prison where 43 rebellious prisoners, holding three guards as hostages, surrendered after withstanding a tear gas siege for 15 hours. It was the state's worst prison riot.

The guards were released unharmed—one after five hours and the other two 10 hours later when the rioters surrendered unconditionally.

Warden John J. O'Brien, carrying out State Corrections Commissioner Maxwell B. Grossman's order that the troublemakers be given the maximum penalty, ordered solitary confinement as punishment.

Grossman said the gang, led by two lifers, won no concessions by their uprising which started with a series of small fires.

Thirty other prisoners quit earlier in face of a tear gas barrage. Demands called for better food, pay for work prescribed by a 1946 legislative act, less confinement for minor infractions more time for showers, and more free time especially for lifers.

Water Users Requested To Avoid Waste

Portland—Water consumers of the Portland Borough water system are requested to refrain from excessive and wasteful use of the water supply.

This prohibits the use of sprinklers of any kind, the continuous flow from any outlet, use of hose to sprinkle gardens and lawns and to wash cars or other excessive use.

The water department asks for the cooperation of all users so there will be a sufficient supply for all. Failure to comply may necessitate temporary discontinuance of the service.

Sears Given Watch For Long Service

A 14-carat gold 21-jewelled watch was presented to Franklin H. Sears of the Holland Manufacturing Co. at a directors' meeting held Tuesday at the company offices in New York City. The watch was given in appreciation for 50 years of continuous service with the company.

Mr. Sears entered the company's employ at its mill in Williamstown, Conn., in 1902, rising to a position of foreman. He continued to perform his duties in that capacity until the company moved its manufacturing operations to Stroudsburg, at which time he became assistant superintendent. On Jan. 1, 1950 Mr. Sears was promoted to mill superintendent and made a director of the company.

At the close of the directors' meeting, Mr. Sears tendered his resignation.

Six Basic Ideas For Decoration

Just as your architect or contractor must know before he plans or builds your house how much you are going to spend, what kind of a house you want, and a hundred other details, so should you have definite ideas about how you are going to furnish and decorate it before you buy even an ash-tray.

An attractive interior does not just happen. It is the result of careful study to get maximum comfort and livableness out of available space; careful study of the rooms themselves, the effect you are trying to create and the amount of money you have to accomplish it.

Six Helpful Suggestions

1—Buy on a budget: Decide how much you can spend and be sure that everything you want can be had within your budget. Experience indicates that a reasonable budget for furnishing and decorating a new house should be from 20 per cent to 25 per cent of the cost of the house itself. If you cannot afford such an outlay all at once, make a three or a five-year plan and buy the essential pieces first, gradually adding to them. Don't think that you have to buy all new furnishings when you move into your new home.

2—Buy Quality: Do not sacrifice quality in the essential pieces that you expect to give years of service. Quality in material and craftsmanship never disappoints. And, in design, quality means lasting beauty.

3—Buy Appropriately: Remember that the character of the small house is informality, friendliness, simplicity, honesty. You do not need elaborate pieces. A tasteful imitation will never deceive anybody.

4—Furnish to a Plan: Based on the Family's Needs and Habits: It is not difficult to find good pieces that will fit the family and, also, harmonize with the general decorative scheme. Each room should be restful, but with cheery atmosphere. There must be places to read, to study, to entertain.

5—Work Out a Definite Scheme for Each Room: Determine the personality and appearance of each room—whether it is to be formal or informal, modern or traditional. Work out color schemes for each room that will harmonize with the others.

6—Be Yourself: You can use the principles of good designs, color harmony, etc., which, after all, are nothing more than evidence of good taste, to express your individuality. Remember, it is your home—in which you will spend many happy years, where you will live, work, entertain; eat and sleep, read and grow. Put yourself into it as fully as possible.

THE CASLON is recommended for a maximum livable floor space in a small area and for economy in construction. There is a full basement and the first floor consists of three bedrooms, bath, living room and combination kitchen-dinette. An abundance of closet space answers the storage problem with wardrobes in the bedrooms, linen and general closet in the bedroom hall and closets in the living room and kitchen. Exterior walls are in the form of a rectangle, without projections, and finished with the wide siding and vertical siding in the front gable. Other features include picture windows, galley type kitchen with cupboards on opposite walls, privacy for all rooms, wrought iron railings and asphalt shingles. Dimensions are 34 feet by 28. Area is 952 square feet while the cubeage totals 18,564. Check Utilities To Avoid Costs

In buying a new home or even an old one in an established neighborhood, the purchaser is advised to make a thorough check on sewer and street improvements.

If the seller is vague about the existence of facilities, it is best to inquire at the city hall. Otherwise, the buyer may meet considerable unexpected expense.

This is especially important when it comes to sewers. Even in many old neighborhoods sewage is still handled through cesspools. Where no sewers exist, property owners are required to have them installed at their own expense.

Garage Appears To Add To Size Of Family House

Combining a garage with the room layout of a modestly-priced residence produces a home of more impressive size. Otherwise such a house may appear diminutive, now that the separate dining room is omitted from so many plans and dimensions of remaining rooms considerably restricted, in an effort to bring home ownership within the reach of wage earners and "white collar" workers.

The pretentiousness resulting from making the garage an integral part of the house will not appreciably increase the average family's building outlay, since most every home-building family must also have a garage.

Quite often, after the new home is well under way, erecting a garage is found to be a major "extra," and there is always danger that unanticipated "extras" will make the home-building project oppressively burdensome for several years.

Many home owners forego the larger appearance a built-in garage gives to a house, also the added convenience, because they fear this arrangement will increase fire hazards and boost fire insurance rates. However, even in a frame residence, a built-in garage is easily made to comply with underwriters' requirements.

Walls and ceiling should be finished with gypsum plaster on metal lath; the concrete floor should be at least a foot below the first-floor level of the house, and there should not be more than one opening between the garage and house, and this opening should

Some Relief From Heat Due Today

Heat Wave, a period of hot weather (Colloq.)—Webster's Dictionary.

If Mr. Webster wanted to be strictly colloquial there are a number of other definitions for a "heat wave."

"As Monroe County entered its second week of unrelenting hot weather, the dictionary may seem to be putting it mildly."

The mercury went up to an unofficial 96 in Stroudsburg yesterday. Most people thought it was hotter. Clouds appeared in the sky—but no rain.

Weather forecasters offered some hope for today, however.

They expected "scattered showers and thunderstorms" last night with a low in the 70s.

Today it's supposed to be partly cloudy, cool and less humid.

High temperatures will range from 80-85 in the north portion of Eastern Pennsylvania to 90 in the southeast portion.

It may be cooler tonight.

Reason for the tentative cool forecast is a cold front moving down from the Canadian border.

By The Associated Press

A marathon heat wave—pushing the mercury into the 90s again—moved sluggishly through its 12th consecutive day yesterday, while the state's heat death toll for a period of 36 hours was placed at seven.

The Weather Bureau forecast some relief through an eastward movement of cooler air, but forecast no immediate lifting of the seige of torrid weather.

A slight easing off was felt in western portions of the state where temperatures generally fell short of the 90 mark. But Eastern and Central Pennsylvania points continued to report readings in the middle 90s.

In Philadelphia, an official high of 97 was recorded Wednesday while the mercury was rising to the 98 level at International Airport to the southwest. Harrisburg's high of 93 was suddenly slashed to 85 degrees by a brief afternoon shower.

Elsewhere, the throbbing mercury hit 93 at Allentown, 94 at Wilkes-Barre, and 92 at Sunbury. Williamsport reported 91, Phillipsburg, Brookville and Erie, 90, Pittsburgh 95, Altoona 87 and Reading 89.

Three more deaths were attributed directly or indirectly to the heat in Philadelphia. Another heat victim had a temperature of 130 degrees when admitted to a hospital.

John Koba, 59, collapsed while window-cleaning. One hour after his temperature was recorded at 130, sponge-bathing with alcohol had lowered it three degrees.

Mrs. Peechatka Honored At Rites

Services for Mrs. Alice Peechatka, 82, Valejo, Cal., former Monroe County resident, was held yesterday at Lanterman funeral home, East Stroudsburg, with Rev. P. N. Wohlson, D.D., officiating.

Burial was in Laurelwood Cemetery, Stroudsburg. Pallbearers were all grandsons. They were James and George Angle, Floyd and Carl Smith, Donald and Richard Transue.

Dr. J. L. Rumsey will be out of town July 26 through August 10.—Adv.

Storage Chest Doubles As Piece Of Furniture

The fifth of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here, how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By Robert Staph

Newfoundland—Where to store the vacuum cleaner—a problem that has vexed housewives for many years—has been solved by Kessler Homewares, a manufacturing firm located here.

They've come up with the answer in the form of a plastic-covered wooden chest with a padded seat on top and thereby have provided a "snug harbor" for this necessity of modern living and an attractive piece of furniture as well.

The utility of this chest, which was put into production here about 18 months ago, has proven so great that the firm is now rigging the interiors to provide for storage of a wide variety of items.

Covered in colorful plastic with its hinged top upholstered with foam rubber, the chest doubles as a hassock, dressing table seat, another ringside seat for that television party or what have you.

Harry Kessler, president of the firm and a New York manufacturer, began operations here early in 1951, converting a barn located at his summer retreat into the present plant.

Production, slow in the beginning, has been stepped up until 125 chests are being manufactured and shipped daily at the present time. The plant employs 20 persons, not including plant manager Oscar Schifter and foreman Mortimer Lee. The firm maintains a sales office in New York City.

White pine lumber is used in the construction of the chests and comes to the plant cut to the proper lengths and thicknesses. The box and cover are assembled separately and are placed in a drying room for a 24-hour period to remove excess moisture, thus preventing damage to the finished product by shrinking.

The box itself is padded with a thin layer of cotton felt before it is covered with the plastic material. Decorative nailing and the attachment of hardware is accomplished before the cover, which is filled with about three inches of foam rubber granules, is attached.

The chests come in three sizes, the largest of which is 15 inches by 30 inches, 18 inches in height. Two textures of plastic materials are used—embossed and antique, the former available in nine colors, the latter in eight.

The boxes are lined with a plastic material that simulates leather and are provided with pockets of the same material, varying in shape and size for the use intended.

Distribution of the chests, another in the long and varied list of products manufactured in Monroe County and the Pocono Mountains area, is on a nationwide scale. The company maintains its own sales force and also uses the facilities of 12 wholesale distributors throughout the United States.

Rites Conducted For Rossi Child

Portland—Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. yesterday for Edmond Peter Rossi, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Rossi of Columbia, N.J., who died Monday afternoon at the family residence. The child had been ill for some time.

Rev. Thomas J. O'Dea of St. Jude's Church, Blairstown, N.J., officiated. Interment was in Cedar Ridge Cemetery, Blairstown.

Surviving, in addition to his parents, are his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rozzi of Columbia; his maternal grandfather, Dominick Rossi of Blairstown and his maternal great grandmother, Mrs. Grace Lee of Columbia.

In using balloons to lift objects, about 13 cubic feet of hydrogen is required to lift one pound.

Mrs. Schmitz, Formerly Of Bushkill, Dies

Bushkill — Mrs. Frances Pierce Schmitz, 95, widow of Rev. William H. Schmitz, died at the home of her daughter, Miss Winifred Schmitz, at Gilson, N.H., on July 3.

Rev. and Mrs. Schmitz came to the Bushkill Dutch Reformed Church from a Philadelphia church in 1909 and served until 1916 and from 1922 to 1925. During this time Mrs. Schmitz organized the cradle roll of the Sunday School, supervised the nursery group, effected the equipping of the nursery room and reorganized the present Missionary Society. Miss Clara Nyce, Mrs. Leola Nyce, Miss Louise Peters and Mrs. E. B. Bartram were among those who assisted Mrs. Schmitz in her Sunday School activities.

Through the endeavors of Rev. and Mrs. Schmitz the church became interested in the Kentucky Mission and has continued this work throughout the years.

Mrs. Schmitz was an energetic person interested in community activities and was ill only a short time prior to her death. Until recently the Schmitz family maintained a summer bungalow in Bushkill.

American Girl Singer Makes Good In Germany

By Don Doane
AP Newsfeatures

Munich, Germany—A young American singer with a pin-up girl's figure is turning the heads of Germany's opera goers.

Bruni Falcon came to Munich with the avowed intention of singing her way into New York's Metropolitan Opera Company.

German critics, who are accustomed to plenty of padding on the figures of opera stars, were skeptical when they first saw Miss Falcon's lithe beauty.

But the laudatory reviews she has been getting indicate that Miss Falcon has won them with her soprano voice as well as her looks.

Before she was half way through her first season, singing a variety of major and minor parts with the Bavarian State Opera Company here, Miss Falcon was signed up to sing only feature roles in Frankfurt next season.

Miss Falcon is frankly hopeful that this trail will lead—as it has for many rising young singers—straight to the "Met."

If so, it won't be her first introduction to New York. She rose to the starring role in the musical drama, "The Consul" in New York last year, after starting as an alternate.

But opera is her first love and the Met is her goal.

She says she came here for three reasons:

1. To broaden her operatic repertoire.

2. Because Munich opera is famous as a European gateway to the Metropolitan.

3. Because a young and comparatively unknown singer can do better financially in Europe than in the United States.

She's enjoying her experience except for one thing: Virtually all operas are sung in German here, regardless of their original language. It means she must learn many roles she already knew in French or Italian.

Fortunately, she speaks German as easily as English. She was born in Boston, Mass., Oct. 27, 1921, but her father was German born. Her real name is Brunhilde Pfeiffer. She went to school a few years in Germany.

Miss Falcon's operatic ambition began when she won local fame in high school operettas at Brockton, Mass.

She started her professional career in Mexico in 1943, then toured with the Charles Wagner Opera Company in the United States in 1950 before joining the cast of "The Consul."

German critics praise her acting as well as her voice. Some of her best press notices were for her "Aida."

Smilingly, Miss Falcon agrees that the current campaign to bring more youth and beauty into the Metropolitan might help her achieve her life's ambition.

At 30, she is strikingly lovely, with dark brown hair, green eyes, and a figure you'd expect to find in the Folies instead of an opera.

Asked about reports that there is a severe shortage of men in Germany, where women outnumber men about three to two, she smiled and said:

"I've heard there was a man shortage in Germany, but personally I haven't noticed any."

Miss Renie Johnson

Renie Johnson To Enter College At Bethlehem

Miss Renie Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Johnson, of Mount Pocono, has enrolled at Moravian College for Women, Bethlehem, for the fall term of 1952.

Miss Johnson, an honor graduate of Stroudsburg High School, was the featured flag twirler with the High School band. She was a member of the Pioneer staff and the Tri-Hi-Y and received the mathematical award at Stroudsburg's June Commencement. Miss Johnson will prepare for a teaching career at Moravian College.

Five Thousand Britains Knit For Dollars

AP Newsfeatures

London.—Five thousand Britons working in their own homes are bringing in much-needed dollars from the United States—all by their skill with knitting needles.

More than 25,000 garments they have knitted have been exported to big American stores in the past year. A London company, the Women's Home Industries, is the agent for the knitters and pays them by results.

The company has delivered some of the knitters' finest work to illustrious clients, including Mrs. Dean Acheson, Mrs. Walter Clifford, wife of the U. S. ambassador in London, and Princess Margaret.

The knit-for-dollars drive grew out of an unpaid wartime organization, the Women's Voluntary Service, which among many other jobs knitted woens for British servicemen. The president of the W.V.S., the Dowager Marchioness of Reading, is chairman of the knitting company, which is non-profit making. It was formed four years ago, and does not disclose full accounts of its volume of business.

Twice as many garments are being sold to the U.S. as one year ago. The most popular group is women's sweaters and bedjackets. The company exported 15,000 of these last year. They retail in U. S. stores at about $20.

Men's waistcoats and cardigans, at about the same price, have reached the 5,000-a-year mark. Children's sweaters, at about $7, are selling in similar quantities.

The latest and most ambitious effort is home-knitted dresses and suits. Since starting this department six months ago, the company has exported 500 of the garments. Their ultimate store prices range from $100.

The 5,000 knitters were chosen from more than 40,000 who sent in samples of their work after the company first advertised its scheme.

They are all women—bar one. He is 60-year-old bachelor Allan Glen, who lives near London. He learned to knit six years ago in hospital and now he adds to his pension by knitting sweaters for dollars.

Brotherhood Of St. John's Plan Projects

A very large attendance meeting of the Brotherhood of St. John's Lutheran Church on Tuesday evening voted a substantial contribution toward the cost for the work done on the church steeple. The meeting was held at the summer home of Clarence S. Kitchen along the Delaware River with Edward Wagner, president, in charge.

Plans were also completed for the annual Ladies' Night picnic dinner at the Stroudsburg playground park on August 19. From present indications it is likely that more than one hundred will be in attendance.

The Brotherhood decided to send a delegate to the convention of the Brotherhood of United Lutheran Church in Washington, D. C., on Sept. 20 and 21.

The men planned to complete the work of renovation in the storage shed of the church.

The following officers were appointed to serve during the month of August: On August 3, at the 8 a. m. Holy Communion service, Herman Haag, Edward Wagner, Richard Shook and Edgar Sersfass, and for the service at 11 a. m. for the month of August, J. V. Dunkelberger, Elston Arnt, Alfred Munson, and Russell Rensinger.

Prior to the business meeting games were enjoyed by the members and following the business session the topic "The Christian and His Leisure Time" was presented by C. A. Keiper. The topic is one of a series that is used throughout the United Lutheran Church in America and the American Lutheran Church. It was prepared by the Rev. Dr. P. N. Wohlens, pastor of St. John's.

During the social hour refreshments were served by the following committees: Henry Tucker, C. S. Kitchen, Paul Ackerman, J. B. Dunkelberger and the pastor.

Brodheadsville S. S. To Picnic

Homemakers Eligible For State Contest

The Cambria County War Memorial Arena has been named as the site for the state-wide eliminations of the 14th Annual Mrs. America contest. Attractive homemakers from all parts of Pennsylvania will vie for the state title on Saturday night, August 16. The winner of the eliminations here will represent the Keystone state in the National Finals at Asbury Park, September 7.

This will be the second year for the state event which saw ten married beauties compete last year in which time blonde and beautiful Marcella Marder, Allentown mother of two, won the crown. The eastern beauty went on to the nation-wide finals where she finished second to Mrs. New York City.

Last year the prettiest brides of Allentown, Allentown, Bethlehem, Indiana, Scranton, Meadville, Sunbury, Pittsburgh and Johnstown were judged on the basis of beauty and homemaking ability. Talent is not required in the contest, attractiveness and homemaking are the two important factors. Each entrant takes a special homemakers quiz which is included in the official entry blank.

More than $10,000.00 in awards will be presented to the national title winner. Any married woman regardless of age is eligible to enter. Residents of this district may obtain free entry blanks by writing to War Memorial Arena, Johnstown, Pennsylvania. The bride who is awarded the Mrs. Pennsylvania title will receive a trophy in addition to her all-expense paid trip to the grand finals at Asbury Park. Deadline for entries is midnight, August 10.

Officials of the War Memorial announce that a full evening of entertainment will be provided in conjunction with the Mrs. Pennsylvania contest. A well known orchestra will play for dancing from eight until twelve and the most beautiful housewife, who is also a typical homemaker, will be selected at nine o'clock. Radio and television personalities will be present and it is expected that the panel of judges will again include a representative of the Governor's cabinet.

Mimesota provides nearly 70 per cent of the iron ore in the United States.

Games for the children of the various departments followed the supper after which the prizes were awarded the winners.

There was tie for the prize for the oldest person present, Mrs. J. M. Kerr and Mrs. Keller. Sallie Wyckoff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wyckoff, was the youngest person. There was also a tie for the largest family, between the Harl and Hoffman families. Wilson Allegre was adjudged the best dressed man at the outing.

Award Prizes At Outing Presbyterians

The annual picnic of the Sunday School of the First Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church was held at the Stroudsburg playgrounds starting at 3 p. m. yesterday. There were about 100 in attendance despite the intense heat.

Edward Williams, assistant superintendent of the Sunday School, was general chairman of the committee of arrangements which provided games for the various departments of the school and also grownups. Many prizes were awarded the winners for the children's competition.

Family gatherings began getting together at 3 p. m. and the children took advantage of the swimming pool and the playground facilities. There was a softball game followed by the covered dish picnic supper. The Sunday school furnished the ice cream, coffee, ice water and milk.

Jean Olivia Turn Is Baptized At Bushkill Church

Bushkill.—Jean Olivia Turn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Turn Jr., was baptized by the Rev. Raymond Pontier, of Deer Park Church, Port Jervis, N.Y., Sunday night at the Bushkill Dutch Reformed Church.

The christening gown which Jean wore was a long white gown with gathered yoke, a round off-shoulder neckline with pink bows, the skirt was hand embroidered. The gown was made by the great grandmother of Miss Hilda B. Wells.

Jean also wore a heirloom ring on a ribbon around her neck, consisting of three genuine pearls from the Wells family. Members and friends of the congregation witnessed the ceremony.

Lawn Party For Linda Kelly At Trout Lake

Readers—Linda Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Kelly, of Pocono Village, Trout Lake, was two years old yesterday. She was honored with a party on the lawn of her home in the afternoon in celebration of the event.

There were games of various kinds and favors for the guests in the form of miniature baskets filled with candy. The table was decorated with a decorated birthday cake. Linda received many gifts.

Children in attendance were: Jerry O'Sullivan, Doris, Gregory and Paul Stevens, Jane and Bill Wenton, Kevin Nevil, Gloria, Judy and Lester Miller, Frankie Kelly, Barbara Nevil, Gwen Johnson and guest of honor, Linda.

Adults present were: Mrs. Wilbur Miller, Mrs. Lester Wenton, Mrs. Elizabeth Drumgoole, Mrs. Ray McHugh, Eddie Stevens and Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, parents of Linda.

THE Wyckoff
SHOPPER

I must have walked miles through the store yesterday in search of an elusive item of merchandise known as Bobbi Britches, requested by a customer residing in State College. I inquired in lingerie, the men's, boys, and women's sportswear departments, and finally appealed to Betty Bartholomew of stock control, before I was directed to Mae Coffman's corset department. Bobbi Britches proved to be a party girdle, of the Skippy type, that looks only large enough for a six year old but stretches amazingly. Mae informs me she has only a few left. The manufacturer is closing out this line, it seems, and something new will be added . . . When Dottie Dunn returns from a two day church meeting at Allentown's Cedar Crest College today, she'll discover that Betty and she have been moved to the mezzanine, attractive new stock control headquarters. And I thought I was lonely over here while they were on vacation! . . .

Holt Wyckoff asks me if I have told all you folks that our store is air conditioned. I have—but perhaps not frequently enough. Local residents realize that Wyckoff's always does everything possible to make its customers comfortable and happy. But some of our city visitors may not know. May I also add that while the air is pleasantly cool, the welcome is always warm—at Wyckoff's . . .

Mable Anderson, in her yellow skirt and sleeveless linen blouse, and Irene Masters in her brown and white voile, are the two smartest looking girls I've seen today. How I envy those bandbox fresh people who always look cucumber-cool no matter what the weather! . . . Sue Edinger just called to say that our Helena Rubinstein beauty consultant, Thelma Monk, will remain in the store only until noon Saturday. So if you plan to meet and talk with her, you'd better come in today or tomorrow . . . I've never been a person to go in for cold creams and such, but I'm most enthusiastic about Rubinstein's Plus Cleanser which I began using yesterday. It's amazing—cool, white, and creamy, and forms a lovely, refreshing lather when worked into the pores. It really cleanses too. Followed by tangy Water Lily lotion, it's quite an uplift to both one's face and spirit. I've also treated myself to a new Helena Rubinstein lipstick in Apple Red . . . Never was I more pleased than yesterday when the dozen received a request for two studio copies of The Wyckoff Shopper script, used at 9:30. THAT never happened before. Thanks to Grace Grace of Mr. Kerlin's office, they're ready for delivery right this minute, still damp from the multigraph machine . . . Bird baths, I see, have been reduced from $3.98 to $2.98 . . . quite a saving, particularly when one considers how reasonably they were priced at the start. Here is one bird (and not a cuckoo . . . I hope) who could do with a bath right now. What a blessing that, at this typing, it's just 5:30 . . . Remember, today's the beginning of our three day "Good-buy to Summer" Sale. Drop in, won't you?

Bosox Explode In Ninth To Trip White Sox

Chicago (AP)—Exploding for seven runs in the ninth inning, the Boston Red Sox took the measure of the Chicago White Sox before 8,321 in Comiskey Park yesterday.

After relieving starter Hal Brown with two out and three runs home in the opening half of the first inning, Joe Dobson had shut out the Bosox with five singles until the start of the ninth.

Then 11 Red Sox marched to the plate against Dobson and "Chuck" Stobbs, including four pinch hitters. Dom DiMaggio, George Kell and Faye Throneberry shared the honors in Boston's 14-hit attack with three each.

Root Brown

The Red Sox routed Brown in the first inning as DiMaggio and Throneberry singled and Kell brought them home with his sixth home run of the season.

The White Sox picked up one run in the second on singles by Sam Mele and Willie Miranda and a walk to Sherm Lollar.

Tom Wright put Chicago even in the third by socking his second homer of the year after a single by Orestes Minosi.

A single by Nellie Fox, a sacrifice and Wright's single put the Pale Hose in front in the fifth.

Boston 300 000 007—10 14 0
Chicago 012 010 000—4 10 0

Fulvous Captures Lassie Stakes

Chicago, (AP)—Fulvous, a daughter of speedy Spy Song, won the $68,175 Lassie Stakes at Arlington Park yesterday by a length and a half. Aerolite was second, Hula, third, and Mini Mine, a four to five favorite, fourth in a field of 11.

The winner, owned by Mary V. Fisher and ridden by Jockey Steve Brooks, traveled the six furlongs in 1:13 4-5.

Aerolite paid $15.40 and $7.40, with Hula, owned by Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, paying $4.40 to show.

Ottawa To Stay In International

Ottawa, (AP)—Roy Mack, vice-president of the Philadelphia Athletics, said yesterday the American League team's Ottawa farm club will remain in the International League next season.

Mack said the parent A's would like to see Sunday ball in Ottawa but failure to get it wouldn't result in moving the club.

Ottawa is in last place but Mack said it was fourth in the league in attendance.

Perkowski Becomes First Lefty To Stop Dodgers As Reds Win

Brooklyn (AP)—Harry Perkowski, Cincinnati southpaw, became the first left-handed starter to beat the Dodgers this year as he went the route for a 6-4 victory which ended Brooklyn's nine-game winning streak.

Perkowski, registering his eighth victory against six defeats allowed 10 hits with Billy Cox's fifth inning double and Gil Hodges' 19th homer in the sixth driving in all the Brooklyn runs.

Home runs by Joe Adcock, Home runs by Joe Adcock,

Andy Seminick and Bob Borkowski off Carl Erskine gave Perkowski a fine early cushion. Two batters by Ted Kluszewski and Adcock put the Rhinelanders off to a one-run start in the second. Kluszewski also doubled in the fourth after which Adcock and Seminick homered. Borkowski belted his in the fifth. Another run was added at the expense of Clyde King in the sixth.

Batter Without Bat Scores Big Run For Amateur Club

Nashville, Tenn., (AP)—Baseball fans here scratched their heads yesterday trying to figure out when a batter is a batter.

The puzzle started during a 'teen-age amateur league game Tuesday, when Frank Willard went in as a pinch hitter for his team. But he carried no bat and the opposing pitcher tossed four consecutive balls. He went to the plate without a bat just as a "gag."

Willard trotted down to first base and a few moments later scored the run that put his team ahead, 5-4. The umpires disallowed protests of the other team that a player without a bat cannot be classed as a batter.

The problem was carried to Southern Association Umpire Bill Brockwell.

"I would insist on his having a bat," Brockwell said. "Otherwise, he would be making a joke of the game."

But Johnny Boguskie and Pop Hale, umpiring the game, said Willard qualified as a batter under rule 2.08 of the Baseball Guide:

"Batter is an offensive player who takes his position in the batter's box."

Pronto Don Favored In Trot

Westbury, N. Y., (AP)—Pronto Don, the famed Hayes Fair Acres Stable trotting gelding from Duquoin, Ill., is favored to win the $15,000 American trotting championship tonight at Roosevelt raceway and come closer to Good Time's reign as "Mr. Money Bags" of harness racing.

Top Field
Ten will line up in the seventh annual invitational affair, bringing together the finest of the nation's trotters in the mile and one quarter race.

Coach Has Explanation
Helsink, (AP)—U. S. Olympic Coach Brutus Hamilton has a simple explanation for America's powerful showing in track and field: "Everybody wants to get into the act. And so they work hard and they do get in."

Pirates To Hold Camp
Pittsburgh, (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates will hold a try-out camp for young ballplayers July 28-29 at Indiana, Pa. Pie Traynor, former star third baseman for the Pirates, will be in charge.

Senators Nip Tigers In Marathon, 5-2

Detroit (AP)—The Washington Senators pushed over three runs in the 16th inning to whip the last place Detroit Tigers, 5 to 2, today.

Pinchhitter Cliff Mape's homer had tied it at 2-all for the Tigers in the ninth.

Winning Runs

Eddie Yost walked to open the 16th, took second on Jackie Jensen's single and came home on Pete Runnels' single to center.

Jensen moved to third on the hit and Runnels took second on the throw to the infield. Mickey Vernon then singled to right, scoring both Jensen and Runnels.

Pitcher Frank Shea pitched 14 innings without a decision in the three and 21-minute marathon.

Shea finally tired and was replaced by Sandy Consuegra who became a four-time winner at the expense of reliever Dick Littlefield.

MAJ. JAY E. LEVAN, Stroudsburg, was recently awarded the Bronze Star Medal at a ceremony at Far East Air Forces Headquarters in Tokyo. Shown congratulating him following the award is FEAF's deputy for comptroller, Col. Llewellyn O. Ryan. The citation which accompanied the award, read, in part, "Major LeVan distinguished himself by meritorious service in connection with military operations against an enemy as wing comptroller, 452nd Bombardment Wing, from July 10, 1951 to Jan. 22, 1952. During that period, Major LeVan capably directed the wing's reporting, accounting and disbursing, and management analysis functions. His programs and analysis provided the basis for numerous command actions affecting the wing's operational effectiveness; and his perceptive analysis of aircraft and combat crew replacement requirements was utilized throughout Fifth Air Force." Major LeVan's wife, Anna, and their children are living in the Tokyo area with him. His uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. McMahon, live at 404 Colbert St., Stroudsburg.

Malta To Honor Two At Outing

Alfred L. Snyder, recorder of St. John's Commandery, and Clifford R. Kintner, who served as grand commander of Pennsylvania, Knights of Malta will be honored at a basket picnic to be held at Stroudsburg Playground from 2 p. m. to nightfall, Saturday.

It was estimated yesterday that 1,000 or more members of the order and their ladies will attend. Delegations from Buffalo and points in Ohio, as well as widely scattered sections of Pennsylvania, will attend.

At the last annual Pittsburgh conclave of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania, that body conferred on Mr. Snyder the honor of past grand commander for his service of 53 years to the order, as editor of St. John's Herald for 46 years and recorder of St. John's Commandery for 50 years, as well as much other service to the order.

Attorney Donald B. Cahoon of the law firm of Rose & Cahoon, Scranton, and past supreme commander of the order, will present Mr. Snyder with a past grand commander's jewel.

Officials said the old fashioned basket picnic is open to the public. In case of rain it will be held in the Malta Temple.

SPEED is the Killer!

One-way ticket...

to a long walk!

This year many Pennsylvania motorists have been given their "walking" papers for speeding.

In the first six months, 16,103 licenses have been suspended in Pennsylvania's drive to protect its citizens from the speed mania.

Speeding in Pennsylvania today leads to a fine or imprisonment, and loss of driving privileges. Swift, effective action is taken against every motorist caught exceeding the speed limit.

And that's to your advantage, because the fearful rise in traffic accidents last year can be traced to motorists with a "speed" complex. In fact, the speeder is responsible for one out of every three fatal accidents.

That is why your State Government is determined to drive the speeder from our streets and highways.

Do not exceed posted speed limits. Reduce speed below posted limits when bad weather, road conditions, heavy traffic, or pedestrian crossings demand extra caution.

COOPERATE WITH THE STATE. PROTECT YOURSELF AND OTHERS BY OBSERVING THE BEST TRAFFIC RULE OF ALL—THE GOLDEN RULE!

This is NOT a license to kill or injure.
It will be revoked or suspended for cause.

John S. Fine, Governor

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Otto F. Messner, Secretary of Revenue

Colonel C. M. Wilhelm, Commissioner of Pennsylvania State Police
